

Three ProTrans Facilities Pass ISO 9001:2008 Recertification Audit

Indianapolis, IN (February 2014) – ProTrans recently passed their ISO 9001:2008 recertification audit. Locations include the ProTrans corporate headquarters, the Indianapolis, Indiana service center and the San Luis Potosi service center in Mexico.

“As an ISO 9001:2008 registered organization, our Quality Assurance system is comprised of a dynamic series of quality guiding principles and procedures to support organizational development and sustainable continuous improvement programs throughout our company extending to our customers’ supply chain network.” said Janet Bautista Smith, ProTrans Director of Quality and Continuous Improvement.

“We are pleased to support our administrative and operations teams by utilizing this system of compliance. ProTrans is, and always will be, devoted to the ISO program. The ISO program enables us to show continuous improvement to meet and exceed our customer expectations.” says Shawn Masters, ProTrans Chief Commercial Officer.

ISO 9001:2008 is a valuable tool in the continuing assessment of the quality management system’s effectiveness and alignment with customer satisfaction. The standard helps in the streamlining of processes that ultimately promote error reduction and increased visibility of improvement opportunities throughout the supply chain.
